

Public/Private Partnerships

Miller Canfield attorneys have extensive experience with public/private partnerships. Whether it is coming up with the right combination of public and private financing for new development, defining the legal relationships between governmental and private sector participation on projects, or dealing with the sale or lease of governmental assets, our lawyers have the experience to help you with all kinds of public – private partnerships. We assist by:

- Outlining all possible options for financing new development
 - Providing counsel on such issues as legal authority for public/private partnerships, infrastructure development and financing
 - Negotiating development agreements and assisting with real estate issues
-