Intellectual Property

In today's global marketplace, intellectual property protection is vital. A business plan that contemplates achieving and retaining a competitive edge in any marketplace, whether domestic or global in scope, requires competent, reliable, creative and cost effective counseling to protect, maintain, enforce and exploit valuable intellectual property assets and to analyze and manage third party IP risks.

Intellectual property attorneys and patent agents at Miller Canfield have the technical and legal backgrounds to advise and represent domestic and international businesses and entrepreneurs, individual inventors, start-up enterprises and academic institutions in obtaining, protecting, enforcing and licensing intellectual property assets.
