

Agreement with Statements About Offshore Outsourcing by US Companies

% Agree Strongly or Somewhat

- ◆ 58% of American workers feel that companies outsourcing work that could be done by American workers to offshore providers should be penalized by the federal government.
- ◆ 39% believe that American companies should be free to outsource work overseas.
- ◆ Just under half of those surveyed believe the media has exaggerated the problem of offshore outsourcing by US companies.

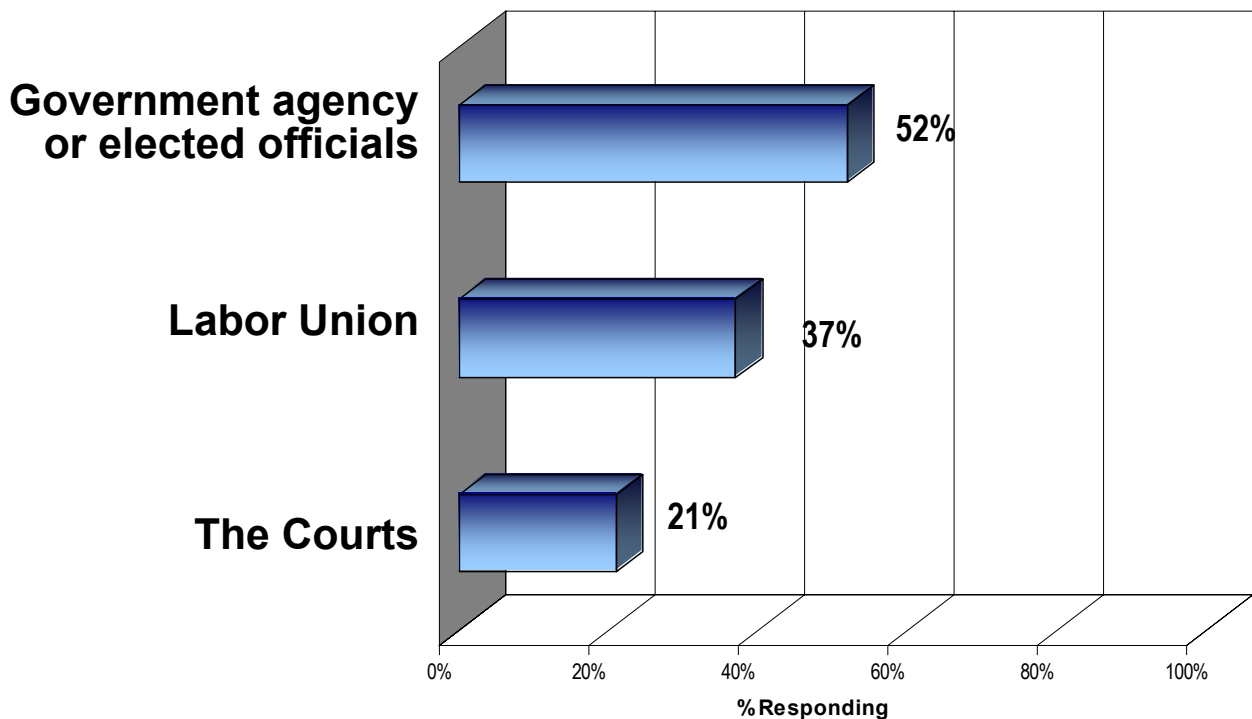

Experience With Job Displacement Due to Offshore Outsourcing

- ◆ Although only 6% of workers surveyed have lost a job because their work was sent overseas, 30% know of someone else who has lost a job due to offshore outsourcing.
- ◆ About one out of ten American workers currently feels their job security is threatened because their employer is considering sending their work to an overseas subcontractor.

Help Sources Would Use if Job Threatened by Offshore Outsourcing

% Very or Somewhat Likely to Turn to Source

- ◆ Half of American workers surveyed would turn to government agencies or their elected officials for help if their job was threatened by offshore outsourcing.
- ◆ Although only 12% of workers surveyed currently belong to a union, 37% would turn to a labor union for help if they thought they might lose their job due to overseas subcontracting.
- ◆ About two in ten of American workers would consider legal action in a situation where their job security was threatened by the possibility of an employer sending their work overseas.